

Tom below is the statement from Mack on your question.

Use of products, which Mack does not manufacture, sell or recommend with Mack vehicles, engines, does not, in and of itself, void Mack warranty coverage. However Mack would not be responsible under its warranty for any direct or indirect failure of a component, or other adverse effect on the operation of a vehicle / engine, resulting from the use of such products.

Engines are required to comply with certain EPA emission regulations, Mack makes no statement relative to emissions when any modification is made to the engine control system.
